POLK'S LATAH COUNTY DIRECTORY 1921-22

MISCELLANEOUS INFORMATION

Latah County, in the northern part of the state, embraces an area of 692,291 acres of land, more than 500,000 of which are devoted to farming, fruit growing and dairying.

It has a population of 27,800

Latah County contains within its limits the most favored sections of the famous Palouse country. While the western and southern portions of the county are rolling and entirely under cultivation, the eastern and northern sections are covered with timber of great value.

In the extreme western portion of the county the Weyerhaeuser syndicate own and operate one of the largest sawmills in the world, representing an investment of more than $1,000,000, and having a daily capacity of 750,000 feet. This company owns a large acreage of standing white pine and other timber in the county.

More than 2,000,000 bushels of wheat and nearly as many of oats are produced annually in the county, in addition to a large amount of other small grains. Fully 1,000 cars of hay are shipped annually to the coast markets. Dairying, stock raising and fruit growing are also prominent industries. In the southern part of the county corn is extensively and profitably grown. The county has the largest area of cultivable lands of any in the state, area considered, and ranks among the first in wealth.

Being well within the rain belt, Latah County is blessed with plenty of moisture, springs and streams are numerous and every vegetable characteristic to this latitude attains a perfect growth. Wheat yields from 30 to 60 bushels per acre, oats as high as 80 bushels, barley 60 bushels, flax is a great cash producer with an average yield of 20 bushels per acre, potatoes produce 200 to 300 bushels and carrots 30 tons to the acre. Latah County apples are equal to any in the Pacific Northwest in crispness, color, flavor and their excellent keeping qualities.

B. C. McCroskey, Pres. J. N. Scott, V.-P.-Cashr. J. A. Oliver, Asst. Cashr.

MOSCOW. The county seat of Latah county, is beautifully situated in the midst of one of the most highly productive sections of the great Palouse country. The city has a population, according to U S census 1920, of 3900; Directory estimate 1921, 4500; a fine city water system, has paved streets and modern sewage system, electric lighting and water plants. It has three railroads, the Northern Pacific, Oregon-Washington R & N Ry, and the Inland Empire Electric line. Moscow enjoys educational advantages hard to equal anywhere—having an excellent school system and the University of Idaho. The Sisters' Ursuline school is also located here. The city's progressiveness is shown by the number of new and important buildings recently constructed. The progress and enterprise so marked throughout the city is due in a large measure to the united efforts of its citizens through its wide-awake Commercial Club. The church societies are many, and include nearly all denominations. All of the usual fraternal societies and the auxiliary orders are represented. Moscow has three strong banks, and all commercial lines are well represented. There is one weekly and one daily newspaper. Moscow, being the shipping and supply point for the rich surrounding agricultural district, there are many large grain warehouses and three fruit packing establishments. Government inspected meat is supplied through the packing and cold storage plant of Hagan & Cushing. The large Roselawn greenhouses furnish cut flowers, plants, shrubs and hot-house vegetables. There are several lumber yards and feed mills. The city has been unusually fortunate in securing a variety of good industries. Moscow has a large federal building for occupancy by the postoffice and other federal offices, and a new high school building costing $90,000. A new wing has been added to the university at a cost of $80,000 and twenty additional teachers are employed.
