SUMMERFIELD APPOINTS DEPUTIES

George K. Moody of Potlatch will be chief deputy in the Latah county sheriff's office after the new administration takes office in January, and Roy Garrison of Moscow will be field deputy, according to a statement given out today by Sheriff-elect Charles Summerfield. Pat Malone, veteran peace officer, will be re-appointed as deputy sheriff, stationed at Bovill.

Mr. Moody has been a resident of Potlatch for a considerable number of years, where he is well known. He was office deputy under Sheriff John L. Woody for several months, following the retirement of L. G. Peterson, two years ago last summer, to enter the contest for probate judge. He is an office man of experience.

Mr. Garrison has been a resident of Moscow for many years and stands high in the community. He was an employee of the Mark P. Miller Milling company for 18 years. Sheriff-elect Summerfield served for six years as field deputy under Sheriff Woody.—Star-Mirror.

BETTER OR WORSE

The standing argument in this country is over whether the world is getting better or worse. Is it? Well, last year we had no bananas, and this year 'taint a goin' to rain no more. This ought to go a long way toward settling the argument. Take your choice as to which side wins. We think they may both be safely set down as each a good deal worse than the other, or than anything that can happen hereafter.—Deary Press.

GENESSE "BULLET" FIRED

There has been much grief manifested in Genesee during the past two or three days over the demise of Johnny Roberts' beloved "Bullet". One of the worst features of the whole thing is the delay of the mail. There is no mail from Saturday afternoon until Monday afternoon for the town people and those who get their mail on the rural routes get their Sunday papers Tuesday morning.

It does seem too bad that people who are living in a civilized country must go that long without mail and there is no question but that in due time the matter will again be righted in some manner. It is hardly probable that the railroad company will again voluntarily put the passenger trains back. If there is anything accomplished along that line, it will come from a different source.—Genesee News.

JULIAETTA PLANTS TREES

The tree planting party at the park was a howling success, 'twas great how the business men, laboring men and loafers all responded to the beautifying of our City. Those present were: Walter Cochran, Miles Pierce, Frank Taylor, C. W. Jessup, Jim Hall, Hank Keller and G. W. Buckallew. They succeeded in planting 135 trees.—Record.

A. A. Nelson was arrested by sheriff's officials Monday upon a complaint sworn out by O. O. Lockard, night-marshal, with having unlawfully in his possession intoxicating liquor. His bond was fixed at $300 cash or $500 personal bond. He furnished cash bond and was released to answer the charges in the district court. Nelson formerly conducted "Sonny's Club" here.—Troy News.

Mrs. J. C. Bibb arrived Saturday from Lewiston to visit her daughter, Mrs. J. G. Gardner.

Railroad to Timber

The survey of the Weyerhaeuser Timber company, working on a railroad survey from Elk River to Clearwater timber belt, has moved to town, says the News. Prospects are looking good and a good route is expected to result. If the road goes through the News predicts a population of 3000 for Elk River within a short time.

ACTIVE IN TIMBER

C. W. Nolan was down from Craig mountain Wed. and reports the Craig Mountain Lumber Co. very active in the removal of its timber holdings in the vicinity of his place. A camp has been established about a half mile from his ranch where buildings are being erected for the men and horses employed. He estimates that there are about 75 men at the camp cutting and loading logs which are being taken to the mill at Winchester. An electric light plant is being installed and the camp is fast assuming the appearance of a modern little town. Mr. Nolan says that the company has about 500 acres of timber in the locality this side of Reubens and the company is planning to continue operations there until the timber is removed.—Culdesac Enterprise.

The body of Carl Finke, 63, who died Monday morning at the White hospital following an attack of heart trouble, was entrained for Chicago Tuesday. Mr. Finke, who had been visiting his brother, Rev. George Finke, Lutheran minister of Southwick, became ill Thanksgiving day and came to the hospital here for treatment.

Mr. Finke was formerly a printer in Chicago, and about five weeks ago came to Southwick to visit his brother who, incidentally, was the first Lutheran minister on the reservation and is well known in that section of the country. The deceased is survived by a daughter in Chicago and two sisters, three brothers, and his mother in Germany.

Rev. Finke will accompany the body to Chicago where he will take care of the funeral arrangements and burial will be made, according to the wish of the deceased, alongside of the body of his wife. Rev. Finke will return to Southwick immediately upon settlement of his brother's affairs.—Tribune.

HEAD LETTUCE PROBLEM

What of the future? That is the great question the lettuce growers of the Lewiston valley face. With the tremendously rapid growth of the head lettuce industry in the past ten years—since Lewiston and its adjacent districts began to grow it in commercial quantities, the expansion of the industry has been almost without precedent. Fancy head lettuce has grown in favor so rapidly that few people believed it possible that overproduction would overtake the industry within a decade or two.

Two causes account for the present condition—too much boosting of thousand dollar an acre lettuce and the failure of the industry to properly organize itself from the beginning, especially the latter. The question as to the future may be settled in a number of ways. One is to cut the acreage to a minimum as already suggested by many; another is to organize the industry, a difficult thing to do; a third is to reduce the acreage and still further diversify; and still another is to let matters drift, with the certain result that the industry will suffer and probably eventually disappear—another "bonanza" gone wrong. And we have had too many of them already to want any more of the kind. Yes, what of the future? Ben Franklin said at the time of signing the declaration of independence that they would have to "hang together" or they would "hang one at a time." Producers may not be in as bad shape, but it's time they learned to hang together.—Banner.

Frank Fox of Trinidad, Wash., was visiting friends in the locality this week. He is an old time resident of Juliaetta.

Stivers' Neck Broken

Vernon Stivers, quarterback on this season's University of Idaho football team and regarded by many as the best quarterback in the Pacific coast conference played through the entire season with a dislocated neck, it became known here Monday. In one of the first practice scrimmages of the season, Stivers, carrying the ball, was jammed between linemen with head down, so that his head was forced violently against his chest. He fell unconscious and when taken to a hospital it was discovered that two of the vertebrae in his neck had been forced apart and shoved out of place. An X-ray photograph showed that one of the vertebrae was touching the spinal cord. For two days Stivers lay paralyzed in the hospital and then physicians succeeded in snapping the dislocated vertebrae back into place.

Following this, Stivers recovered from the paralysis. The fact that Stivers had dislocated his neck was kept secret by Coach Robert Mathews of the Idaho team, and in every game Stivers' neck was tightly bandaged with tape to prevent a recurrence of the injury.—Tribune.

Darrell Thurston, one of the bank bandits who robbed the Craigmone bank and later killed Gordon Harris, traffic officer of Lewiston, was given a life sentence by Judge Miles S. Johnson, Friday morning of last week.

story is from the pen of Robert J. Sherman, one of America's foremost playwrights. It deals with the drug question which is creating much disturbance throughout the United States. The advance representative of the company praises these plays very highly and says they are plays that every good citizen should see. Popular prices will be charged.

Coöperative Work Shows Rapid Growth

Recently Organized Associations Do Big Business.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The Southern states show greater co-operative marketing growth since 1915 than other states where co-operative marketing is of longer standing, according to a tabulation made by the United States Department of Agriculture. The large volume of business handled by the recently organized tobacco, cotton and rice associations is given as the reason for the change.

Co-operative organizations in the seven West North Central states handled 45 per cent of the total business transacted in all states in 1915, whereas co-operatives in these states now handle 30 per cent of the total business. Organizations in the three Pacific states in 1915 did 24 per cent of the total business, as compared with 19 per cent in 1923. Co-operatives in the East North Central group did 14 per cent of the total in 1915, as compared with 15 per cent in 1923, and co-operatives in the Middle Atlantic group did 9 per cent in 1915 as compared with 12 1/4 per cent in 1923.

The greatest growth is shown in the East South Central group, where co-operatives in 1915 did little better than 1 per cent of the total business, as compared with 9 per cent in 1923. The figures for the South Atlantic states show a jump from 2 per cent to 7 per cent, and the West South Central states an increase from 1 per cent in 1915 to 4 per cent in 1923. A small increase is shown in the New England states and a slight decrease in the Mountain states.

Ventilation Necessary in Storing Seed Corn

Ventilation and heat are the two things necessary to successful seed corn storage. Any place that has a good roof, is dry and has plenty of ventilation is satisfactory.

The chief problem in storing seed corn is to provide a means whereby the moisture content can be reduced to the point where the germ is not injured by freezing weather, and that it remains this way until planting time. If the corn is picked early enough, properly hung and in a dry, airy place, there is usually no need for artificial heat.

Never store corn in sacks, piles or by placing one row of ears immediately on top of another, writes Ralph E. Johnston in the Dakota Farmer. Leave some air around each ear.

There are many different methods of storing seed corn. There is the blading twine method by which the ears are laid on the twine, crossing the cords each time after the ear is laid in place and alternating the butts and tips. Ten to twelve ears are put in each string. There are wire racks of various kinds with both vertical and horizontal strands. There are various kinds of "tree" or "post" systems by which ears are attached to nails which have been driven in or through posts or boards in an upright slanting manner.

Of Much Importance to Keep Outside Cave Dry

The outside cave or storage cellar should be well ventilated and well drained and this is a problem in many kinds of soil. Keeping a pit well drained by using a rather high point of land and with the walls of the entrance several inches above ground there will be no danger of water from the outside.

Seepage can be prevented by digging a large pocket in the floor before the concrete is laid. This is filled with gravel or sand and the concrete then sloped toward this pocket from all sides where it terminates in a drain. Building tile will generally give a dry floor if they are laid flat and end to end. If desired they can be covered with two inches of concrete or cinders.

Laying Pullets Require Abundance of Good Grain

Laying pullets need an abundance of grain to keep the body warm and maintain the small surplus of fat needed by all good layers, stated Prof. A. G. Phillips of the Purdue university poultry department.

A higher percentage of grain should be fed from October to January, slightly less from January to March and a normal ration in the spring. This enables pullets to keep up the body weight and still produce eggs. Most pullets that were early hatched, properly matured and ready to lay in the winter fell down on the job when cold weather hit them, because they were too thin.

Live Stock Notes

The market docks the lambs when the sheepman doesn't.

Pure bred live stock on every farm will add millions to the value of the agricultural output and increase the prosperity of the individual farmer.

Cowpeas provide a very good supplement with corn in a pig ration. They contain about 24 per cent protein and experiments show that a ration of half cowpeas and half corn gives very good results.

If you do not dock the lambs in spring, the market man will dock the price in fall or winter.

It is likely that green apples might cause abortion in sows because it is known that indigestion or the feeding of fermenting slop or damaged feed may do so.

A great many flock owners encounter disease among their sheep and think that some medication is necessary while in reality variety of food would check the trouble.

"Where the New Things Are Newest"

CREAM SEPARATOR IMPORTANT MACHINE

To encourage dairymen to adopt methods that will make their cream a little more wholesome and the separator last a little longer, the following advice is given by W. R. Brown, professor of dairying, Manitoba Agricultural college.

"(a) The manufacturer's instructions should be read with care and carried out to the limit. Better than anyone else, he understands the direct needs of the machine.

"(b) Absolute firmness and levelness of the machine are essential. Failure to secure either means that the bowl will not run true, which defect will cause not only poor separation and loss of fat but injury to the finer adjustments of the spindle, and consequently shorter life of the machine.

"(c) The separator must be kept thoroughly oiled with good separator oil, which can be obtained from the separator companies. The dirty oil should be drained out occasionally and a good cleaning with kerosene accomplished. This, in turn, should be drained off and a new supply of good oil added. This makes the machine run easier as well as lengthens its life.

"(d) Start the machine slowly and increase the speed gradually until the proper speed, which is indicated on the handle of most separators, has been obtained. This should be maintained steadily throughout the time that the milk is being fed into the bowl. Any carelessness in turning will result, not only in an injury to the machine, but also in unnecessary loss of fat in the skim milk.

"(e) Before the milk is turned in, run into the separator enough warm water (110 to 120 degrees F.) to fill the bowl. This prevents the milk from sticking to the bowl parts, thus making washing easier and lessening the loss of fat.

"(f) Milk should be clean and warm when fed into the bowl. Every precaution should be taken to prevent dirt getting into the milk. It is wise, however, to make sure that no dirt is in it by using a fine strainer plus four piles of cheesecloth before the milk is put into the supply can.

"(g) Have the speed uniform before the milk is turned into the bowl. Open the tap to its full capacity. The float, which serves to regulate the discharge from the supply can, should always be used.

"(h) Use a flush. About one quart of warm water or fresh skim milk should be run through the bowl after the whole milk. This flushes the bowl free of any cream that may be clogged in the bowl and thus lessens the loss of fat. Warm water, if used, tends to make washing of the interior parts of the bowl easier.

"(i) Allow the speed of the machine to 'die down' without applying any brake or pressure. The fact that the bowl runs a long time is proof that it runs smoothly and the machine turns easily. Any effort to stop the bowl is apt to shift the adjustment of the bowl or otherwise put it out of balance, with consequent loss in efficiency.

"(j) Wash the separator immediately after use and exercise the strictest care in getting all parts of the machine absolutely clean. It is conceded that improper cleaning of utensils, including pails, cans, separators, etc., is responsible for a big percentage of the bad flavor that develops in milk. Unless care is exercised, the separator offers a good breeding place for those germs that develop the bad flavors.

Stage Scrub-Bull Trial at Farm Bureau Meeting

The trial of a scrub bull in which every part of the proceedings—except of course, the prisoner—was taken by boys' and girls' club members, recently occurred at a farm bureau meeting in Lincoln county, Oregon. The event took place during a picnic and was the chief attraction of the day. The bull was found guilty. The 200 spectators rendered an additional verdict, unanimously, that the work of the boys and girls was extremely creditable.

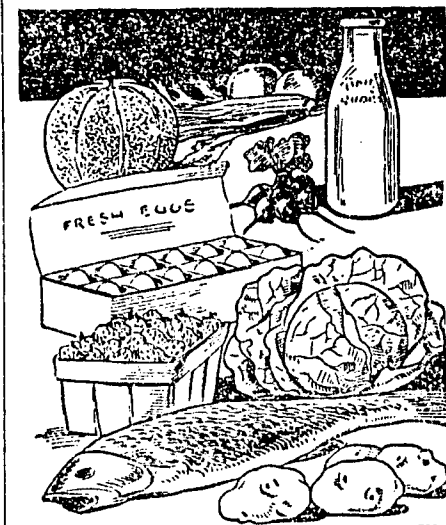

In reporting the event to the United States Department of Agriculture J. R. Beck, county agent of Lincoln county, Oregon, described a scrub-bull exchange plan recently inaugurated. Under this plan the owners of pure bred cattle list their surplus bull crop to scrub-bull owners at a flat price of $30 each if taken by the time the bull calves are six weeks old. The purchaser must agree to butcher his scrub bulls as soon as the pure bred calf is old enough for service.

Cause of Lumpy Milk

The usual cause of a cow giving lumpy milk is the inflammation of that quarter of the udder from which the bad milk comes. Ordinarily this condition will not continue for a very long time. Incomplete milking is often the cause. The application of turpentine and lard, or camphorated lubricant will aid materially in restoring the udder to its normal condition. The administration of epsom salts is also advisable, as the bowels are apt to be sluggish.

Conviction Needed

"You have all done not so badly," he would say. "But you shall remember that it is not enough to have the method and the art and the power, nor even that which is touch, but you shall have also the conviction that nails the work to the wall."—Kipling.
