Items of Interest Taken From Neighboring Papers

A big car of some fancy breed ran into a poor little Ford out on the highway, some three miles north of town, Saturday evening and almost demolished the thing, but no one was hurt, according to reports. Who they were or where they were from was not learned.

Car smashups are becoming more numerous as the days go on—and the only wonder is that more do not happen. No matter how good a driver one may be, there are some who seem to think they are the only ones on the road and do not pay any attention as to which side they are on, especially when rounding curves.

If everyone would keep on their own side of the road, there would be fewer accidents and absolutely no excuse for one.—Genese News.

Mr. R. L. Pennell of Lewiston was here Wednesday evening gathering the samples of grains and grasses which the farmers had left at the bank and confectionery.

He expressed himself as very much pleased with what few samples he secured and stated that such things advertise the great Northwest far better than just merely the written description, as those interested may see with their own eyes just what is produced.—Julietta Record.

By a deal closed this week, Benj. V. Haas, editor and owner of the Troy News, has sold the paper and plant to W. A. Johns, of Moore, Montana, the new owner taking possession this week.

Mr. Johns is an experienced newspaper man, having had 15 years of service in the work, and is able to give the community a newspaper of merit. He still has interests in Moore but has decided that this is an ideal place to locate.

In giving up the news, the retiring editor also expects to give up newspaper work and enter another line of business. He is undecided just what that will be, or where, but will leave soon for the coast where a new vocation will present itself. We have enjoyed our work in the community the past three and one-half years we have been here and trust that our efforts have not been without good results.—Troy News.

Anton Nelson, inventor of the side hill attachment for bean harvesters, has arranged to have his device manufactured in Lewiston and is spending some time there overseeing the work. It is Mr. Nelson's intention to have about 50 attachments made this year. He will place them on the market in towns serving the various bean growing districts. This will include Deary, Kendrick, Troy, Lewiston, Orofino and reservation points.

Mr. Nelson's device will sell for a very reasonable price, under a money back guarantee. He has thoroughly experimented with it and is in a position to absolutely assure purchasers that it is an essential part of the harvesting machine, saving its cost many times over by preventing loss of time while cutting beans. Next year he will manufacture the device in quantities to supply whatever demand there may be for it.—Deary Press.

J. B. Helpman was transacting business in Lewiston last Saturday.

New His Stuffs

A colored preacher in Alabama had at one time served a short jail sentence, was fearful lest his congregation discover the fact, as in his later years he had been a model of rectitude. One Sunday, rising to begin his sermon, his heart sank to see a former cellmate sitting in the front row. Quick thinking was necessary. Fixing his eye on the unwelcome guest, the preacher announced solemnly: "Ah takes mah text dis mo-non' from the 64th chaptah, fo' 100 verse of de Book of Job, which say, 'Dem as sees and knows me, says nothing, dem will A see later.'"

Death of William Jennings Bryan

William Jennings Bryan, one of the most outstanding figures in the public life of America, passed away last Sunday afternoon at Dayton, Tenn. He had gone to his room to take a nap and death came peacefully while he was sleeping. Physicians stated that death was due to a hemorrhage of the brain, resulting in apoplexy. Funeral services will be held at Arlington cemetery, Washington, D. C., where the body of this great spirited citizen will be laid to rest.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN was the most remarkable political party leader, in many respects, in American history.

He attained to power with astonishing suddenness, and very young. This power, too, was far more nearly absolute than a party leader often possesses. And Bryan held onto it, year after year and year after year. Three times he was the Democratic nominee for president. On the occasions when he did not make the run himself, he generally was strong enough to choose the candidate, or, at any rate, the candidate had to have his indorsement in order to secure the nomination.

The unshakability of his grip would not have been so surprising if Bryan had been a consistent winner in the campaigns he led; instead he lost consistently.

Bryan was born in 1860, at Salem, Ill. He was educated at Illinois College, was admitted to the bar in 1883 and hung out his lawyer's shingle at Jacksonville, in his native state. It was here also that he married Miss Mary E. Baird, of Perry, Ill., with whom he spent a long and very happy wedded life.

In 1887 the Bryans moved to Lincoln, Neb., where for the next few years the future Democratic standard-bearer practiced law.

In 1891 Bryan was sent to Congress, where he served two successive terms. At the end of his second term he accepted the editorship of the Omaha World-Herald.

In 1896, still nationally almost unknown, he attended the Democratic presidential convention, and at its conclusion found himself his party's candidate for the first office in the country.

He was defeated by the Republican nominee, William McKinley, but from that time forward he was the undisputed head of his party.

In the Spanish-American war Bryan raised the Third Regiment of Nebraska Volunteers and became its colonel.

Developments which followed the war did not meet with his approval, however, and it was with "Anti-Imperialism," as his watchword that he ran again for president in 1900. Again he was defeated, by McKinley.

In 1904 Judge Alton Brooks Parker was the Democratic presidential nominee. In 1908 Bryan was, for the third time, at the head of his party's ticket, but the majority was still against him and William Howard Taft, the Republican candidate, was victorious.

Four years later it was to Bryan, more than to any other single influence, that Woodrow Wilson owed his nomination for the presidency.

Upon Wilson's inauguration, the "Commoner," as Bryan often was called, from the name of the Weekly newspaper he had been publishing for several years at Lincoln, accepted the portfolio of state. In 1915 he resigned this office, believing, as he stated, that the administration's policy was leading toward American entrance into the World War, which then was raging.

Thenceforward the Nebraskan interested himself chiefly in the effort to promote national prohibition, which he had favored for years, though previously the exigencies of politics had forced him to give other issues precedence to it.

Local Board Hires Teachers

Will Make Improvements in School Building

The local school board, consisting of A. Wilmot, A. K. Carlson and N. E. Walker, feels very well satisfied with the corps of teachers signed up for the coming school year. All positions but one, the third and fourth grades, have been filled, and the contract has been mailed for the signature of the teacher for these two grades. If she signs, then all grades from the primary through the high school will be provided with experienced teachers, a condition which has not been experienced by the local schools for many years.

Mrs. A. O. Strauch, who has been highly successful in the primary grades here for the past two years, will have charge of those rooms as usual.

A young lady from South Dakota with five years experience is expected to fill the third and fourth grades.

Luther C. Kerns, a young man with three years successful experience, will teach the fifth and sixth grades and will also have charge of athletics. He is an experienced basket ball coach and a man of pleasing appearance.

W. D. MacGregor, one of the most successful seventh and eighth grade teachers in Latah county, will again have charge of these grades. He is very popular with his pupils and secured wonderful results last year.

In the high school Miss Seeley will teach the same subjects that she had last year, which include domestic science. This will be her second year as a teacher and her work will undoubtedly be well taken care of.

Giles R. Kerns of Tekoa, Wash., is the newly elected principal. He has taught in the Tekoa schools for eleven years most successfully, and has had 26 years experience in teaching in the Whitman county schools. The board believes the school is fortunate to secure his services here. Mr. Kerns has rented the C. F. Byrne residence and will move here soon. His son is married and will also rent a house here before school starts.

A. O. Strauch will continue as superintendent and will have charge of the manual training and mathematics. This is his third year in these departments and he has secured very good results.

The board made a survey of the school house Wednesday morning and found the building badly in need of some repairs. It is proposed to give the outside woodwork two coats of paint. A number of the desks will be overhauled and some of the walls kalsomined and other repairs made so that the building will be in first class shape before school starts in the fall.

The members of the board are looking forward to a very successful school year.

Return From Park

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Knepper and children returned last Saturday evening from a trip to Yellowstone Park. A distance of 1800 miles was covered, the trip to the park being made by way of Missoula, Mont., up the Bitterroot valley to the west entrance at Yellowstone. The circle of the park was made to the west entrance and the homeward journey by way of St. Anthony, Pocatello, Twin Falls, Boise and from there over the state highway home. The worst road encountered on the trip was from Lapwai to the Latah county line below Juliaetta. The Park is all that could be desired.

Mrs. Theo Hanson and two daughters, Miss Manila and Evelyn, visited at the home of Mrs. Jennie Plummer, Wednesday of this week.

Kendrick News 20 Years Ago

Items Taken from Gazette Published in 1905

Barnum & Schwitzer are actively engaged on the Atchison building just east of Lauterbach's, which will be finished by the first of August and occupied by the post-office. It is a brick 30 by 60 feet and adds one more substantial building to our town.

Arthur Webster is keeping his four horse team busy hauling freight to and from Leland. The roads are now in good shape and quick time is made.

A sample of timothy secured by George Wright on Bear ridge was brought to our office and is worthy of note. It is 5 feet tall and the head is over a foot long—an indication of what the hay crop in this section is going to be like.

J. L. Woody returned Monday from a five-days' cruise in the Elk creek country. Martin Thomas was one of the party and the editor gained a fine mess of speckled beauties, a portion of the catch of Mr. Thomas.

Dr. J. T. Moser and family left Thursday for Portland where they will enjoy the fair and the Doctor will attend the convention of the dental fraternity now in session.

Willis Pegg, who started the Leland Sentinel, some three months ago, found the newspaper field covered thoroughly by the Gazette, and after struggling to secure a foothold, gave up the contract, leaving the plant as security to his creditors.

Mr. Bailey of Fix ridge has sold his farm of 50 acres at $45 per acre. It is located on Fix ridge where he took up a homestead of 160 acres, purchased the balance at $10 and $15 per acre, which by the increase in value has made him a rich man.

G. M. Lewis is distributing a neat pamphlet exploiting the 1835 R. Wallace silverware and telling the latest method of artistic table arrangement.

Chas. Sattler returned this week from a protracted trip overland to South Idaho, visiting the Salmon River country, Blue Lakes, Payette and other points. While absent he contracted for a considerable quantity of hides which he will secure this fall.

Lee Carlton the fruit grower reports a splendid market for all kinds of fruit. A telegram quotes cherries at $1.25 a box F. O. B. Kendrick, while other kinds of fruit are as high in proportion. While there is not as much fruit this year as usual, the prices more than offset the loss in quantity.

Threshing in The Potlatch

Threshing is in full blast on Potlatch ridge and grain is beginning to roll into the local warehouses. Frank Hosington's machine, in the Fairview section, will not pull into the field until Monday. By that time both winter and spring grain will be ready to thresh. He has a new separator and engine.

On American ridge the machines will start Monday morning, except the two combines owned by the Benscoters and Dora May, which have been operating this week.

While it is not possible to make an accurate estimate as to the yield, it is reported from a reliable source that the average is in the neighborhood of 30 bushels to the acre for winter wheat.

More or less conflicting reports are current concerning the extent of damage to the spring grain, caused by the hot weather of the past two weeks, but it is safe to say that the damage is considerable and the yield will be somewhat reduced.

Mrs. Jackson Bailey returned home from Lewiston last Saturday where she visited her son who has a ranch in the Lewiston Orchards district.

Band Concert Saturday Nite

The Kendrick band will give one of its popular open air concerts at the park tomorrow night. At each concert given this summer the crowds are increasing in size, so it is presumed that the public is pleased with the programs given. Everyone is cordially invited to be present tomorrow night. The concert will start at 7:30 sharp.

Marble Mill Burned

The milling plant of the Idaho Marble Co., which is located in Bedrock canyon, was completely destroyed by fire early last Sunday morning. The mill building and boiler room are a total loss. It is stated that the loss is estimated at $30,000 with insurance to the amount of $4,500. The origin of the fire is not known. It is understood that the company will rebuild at once.

Kendrick Tennis Champions

D. L. McLain and a Chinese student at W. S. C. came down here last Saturday and challenged R. H. Ramey and J. G. Gardner to play tennis. They put up a very good exhibition of the game Saturday evening and both men are good players, but they went down to defeat at the hands of the two local champs. The Chinese student is said to be from a wealthy family in China. He will finish his college work next year. The tennis team of Ramey & Gardner is looking for new worlds to conquer.

The fourth quarterly conference of the Methodist church will be held August 6 at 8 p.m. in Epworth Hall, with Dr. C. E. Miller, district superintendent, presiding. Many things of interest, including annual reports from all departments, plans for next year's work etc., will come up at this meeting.

HE KNOWS

A revival was raging in a Virginia colored church. The fruits had been considerable. One obdurate soul, however, resisted the efforts of the elder. Called to account for his reluctance, he replied:

"Yo' see how it is, Elder. I'se got a problem, I don't see how I'se gwine git mah shirt on over mah wings when I gits to Glory."

"Dat ain't yo' problem," retorted the exhorter promptly. "Yo, problem is how is yo' gwine git yo' hat on ovah yo' horns."—Everybody's Magazine.

Now that the theory of evolution has ceased to occupy the public mind, we might occupy our thoughts with the question "Where does the wind go when it stops blowing?"

If the average country newspaper publisher were to shoot himself every time he got into financial difficulties, he would be as full of holes as a Swiss cheese.

Youth with a 90-horse-power car and a no-horsepower brain, is our greatest problem, says a chief of police. Yet New Bedford, Mass., with more than 100,000 population, has not had a death by automobile traffic in 17 months. No other city in the United States can match that record. The secret seems to be that New Bedford takes away the license of a reckless driver. More than 500 such licenses were revoked there during the past year. The New Bedford system appears to work. Why not adopt it elsewhere?—Capers Weekly.

We are republishing an editorial by Norman B. Adkinson of the Idaho Home Industries Association, that has been going the rounds of the papers of Idaho. It is good, but fortunately for the Gazette it doesn't apply in this town except in one or two cases. There is very little job work sent out of Kendrick and we believe there is no good reason why any of it should be sent to mail order printing houses.

By Norman B. Adkinson, secretary Idaho Home Industries Association.

Last week—not last year nor a decade ago—but last week, in one of our most promising Idaho cities I saw that fateful notice of attachment on a print shop door and it was closed for the lack of payment of $63. Of course there were other obligations, but why should that institution have been closed at all? There it stood, full of high priced machinery, ready to work for the general good of the community. While I stood in front of this door I mused at the tragedy which occasionally strikes every town—the closing of home industries for lack of support.

No—the printer didn't drink, he didn't gamble—he was just an honest, wholesome chap with a growing family to support, an American who wished to live up to American ideals, to rear his family as they should be brought up, who wished to send his children to school, to own his own home and to pay Idaho taxes.

But he got no support! His neighbors who met him many times each day, whose children played with his children, whose wives were such good friends of his wife, forgot he was a printer and sent their printing out of town. He supported all of the clubs, the Y. M. C. A., the chamber of commerce, the churches, the schools, the libraries but he had to go to another community where they would support the local printers. He was a good printer, too, and his prices were low—but Lord, man!—he had to live and care for his family.

So THEY closed him out. Who? YOU—when you send your printing out of the state! After all, who's to blame? People are still selling their Lord for less than Thirty pieces of silver.

The fellow who doesn't know much, but knows enuf not to let others know that he doesn't know, knows more than some of the knowing ones know.—Boston Transcript.

Kendrick faces a serious shortage of houses. Those desiring good houses to rent this fall will have difficulty in finding anything desirable. The town has come to a point where a substantial building program will have to take place in order to accommodate those who wish to come here to live while their children are attending school. During the last few years it has been a case of choosing between a new home or a new car, and the car usually wins.

Organize to Build

In order to meet, at least to some extent, the demand for modern homes in Moscow, the Latah Land & Building company will finance the erection of at least a half a dozen modern homes during the present year. The capital stock of the company is $25,000, and may be increased to $50,000 by selling profit sharing certificates, if more capital is found essential. It is believed, however, that $25,000 will finance all the building that can be done this fall.

It is the purpose of the company to build houses to be sold on the easy payment plan—practically on a rental basis. It is expected now that the first house will be under construction within ten days.

The par value of the stock will be $1 per share and subscribers will pay 10 per cent on demand, to start the initial operations, and will not be called upon to pay in more than 10 per cent at any one time. The management of the affairs of the company will be in the hands of a board of control of five men, elected by the stockholders, together with the secretary and treasurer.—Star-Mirror.
