

LOCALS WIN FROM UNIONTOWN-COLTON

Terrific Hitting The Feature of The Game.

Last Sunday Kendrick went on a batting rampage here and won from Uniontown-Colton 16 to 8. A total of 25 hits were made during the game of which number the locals got 15 and the visitors 10. Twice during the game with three Kendrick men on bases, lucky hits by White and G. Fleschman cleaned the bases.

Because of the hard hitting by both teams, errors were more or less frequent during the game, but the large crowd present got its money's worth watching the ball clouted all over the lot. The Consolidation used up two pitchers in a vain endeavor to stem the tide. Fleschman for Kendrick pitched the entire game.

Following is a resume of the game in detail:

Wegner-McCamath

On Friday morning, April 27, at 10 a. m. a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Carl L. Wegner, when his youngest sister Johannah Adeline Wegner, was united in marriage to Mr. Edward Earle McCamath. The single ring service of the Lutheran church was read by the Rev. E. A. Rein of Cameron, beneath a large white wedding bell and in the miniature conservatory of blooming plants and ferns of Mrs. Wegner.

The bride wore a gown of beige georgette with hat and slippers to match. She was attended by her sister, Miss Anna of Spokane. A brother, Aug. O. Wegner of Cameron acted as the best man to the groom.

Immediately after the ceremony a sumptuous dinner was served by the Mesdames C. L. Wegner, A. O. Wegner and George Ehlers. The guests included besides the bridal couple, Rev and Mrs. E. A. Rein and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Ehlers and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Wegner and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Wegner and family, Miss Anna Wegner, Mrs. Silflow, Sr. and son, Herman, and Mrs. Amos Spekler and son, Cecil.

At 4 o'clock, amid cheers and well wishes, and with the car well trailed with old shoes, the couple left for their home in Cathlamet, Wash., where Mr. McCamath is engaged as a printer for the Cathlamet Sun. The bride having been raised in Cameron is well known in the community. Due to the hour of her departure and the busy season, no charivari was planned, but hosts and guests gathered on the porch and out-did themselves that the couple would not be disappointed in not having had one of their own, while the bride's many friends are regretting the fact that they could not be present to help with the music (??).

The Gazette and the entire community join in wishing the young couple a long and happy future.

Clarkston Wins From Juliaetta

Juliaetta had a bad day last Sunday at Clarkston when that fast aggregation took them into camp by a score of 14 to 3. Errors were largely responsible for most of Clarkston's runs. Juliaetta went into the game badly crippled by the loss of K. Clark, one of their best infielders. It was necessary to make a number of shifts in the infield positions and the team was thus disorganized.

Juliaetta will have a fast lineup Sunday against Kendrick, having added Claus Clark and Dave Slickpoo to their player list.

Lecture Here Next Tuesday

Next Tuesday, May 8, representatives of the Washington Water Power Co. will be in Kendrick for the purpose of giving a lecture under the auspices of the local commercial club. In the morning a talk will be given to the students of the Juliaetta schools at Juliaetta. In the afternoon the officials will visit the Kendrick schools. At the New Kendrick Theatre, in the evening, will be the main lecture on the big Chelan power plant illustrated with lantern slides, showing views of the work as it progressed and was finally brought to completion.

There will be no admission charge for this lecture and everyone is cordially invited to be present. Mr. James B. Fiskien, electrical engineer for the Washington Water Power Co., will deliver the lecture. He will be accompanied here by other prominent officials of the company.

Commercial Club Next Tuesday

Plans are now being made to entertain the ladies at the dinner hour next Tuesday evening, which is the regular time for the commercial club meeting. A musical program will be provided and a social good time enjoyed. The arrangements are in charge of the program committee of the club.

Attend W. O. W. Convention

In spite of the muddy roads and rather unfavorable weather conditions, a very good attendance was present at the district meeting of Woodmen delegates here Wednesday. There were 84 delegates from the 32 camps in the northern part of the state. It was estimated there were several hundred lay members present.

The business session was held in the morning and in the afternoon a ball game was staged between Genesee and Lewiston, the former team winning by the close score of 7 to 6. The game was tied in the ninth when a lucky rally brought Genesee the winning run.

After the ball game a competitive drill was scheduled to take place but as Moscow was the only team present, the cup was awarded to that team after an exhibition drill. The members of the team made an attractive appearance with their white uniforms and red sashes.

In the evening a dance was held, music being furnished by a Woodmen orchestra. The hall was packed and standing room was at a premium.

The meeting in general was considered a very successful affair.

N. P. To Improve Track

Rehabilitation of the Northern Pacific branch line from Spokane to Lewiston, started last year when a section of 30 miles from Howell to Whalen was rebuilt, will be continued this year, with plans for reconstruction of 29 miles more at a cost of $200,000, it is announced by A. F. Shirley, general agent, says the Tribune.

The section to be rehabilitated this year extends from Whalen north to Garfield, and the reconstruction of the line will include bank-widening, complete reballasting of the roadbed, replacing of ties, replacing the present 90 pound rails with 95 pound rails and rebuilding the line in every respect up to main line standards.

The reconstruction of a bridge south of Troy at a cost of $14,000 also will be carried out this year.

The work of ballasting and bank-widening on the line already has started, according to Mr. Shirley, and eight work trains are being used. These have seven extra crews totalling more than 500 men. The ballasting will require 125,000 cubic yards of material and the bank-widening will necessitate movement of 25,000 cubic yards of earth and rock.

The decision of the Northern Pacific to improve the service on the Spokane-Lewiston run and cut down the running time, has made it necessary to rebuild the line to main-line specifications, according to Mr. Shirley. With the new ballast and heavier steel for the entire distance, the running time can be reduced still more. Mr. Shirley believes, and he looks for the time to be shortened as soon as the work is done this summer.

At the present time the running time between Lewiston and Spokane has been cut down to an average for the four passenger trains of five hours and 25 minutes against about six hours formerly. The fastest train on the run, the night train into Lewiston, makes the trip in five hours and 20 minutes.

Buys a Proud Dog

Marvin Long bought a Pekinese dog this week from a high-bat kennel in Spokane. This dog has a family tree and is the most aristocratic canine in Kendrick. Marvin's next move will be to buy a limousine to haul this haughty dog around.

WILL NOW ENFORCE AUTO TITLE LAW

Not Transfer Cars Without Title Certificate.

All work incident to getting the new certificate of title law into operation has now been completed, it is announced by Fred E. Lukens, secretary of state, and in the future, transfers of cars may not be made without a certificate of title.

This feature of the law has not been enforced while the work of installing the new law was in progress but the department is now caught up with all work and there is no delay in issuing title for all applicants.

Dealers are urged to acquire title to used cars now in their possession so that when a sale is made they will be able to give title to the new owner. In the case of new cars dealers are presumed to own them without a certificate so that the first owners will make application to the secretary of state for the certificate.

The department has issued title to approximately 80,000 cars in the past three months and Mr. Lukens pays high compliment to Idaho's assessors for their co-operation in handling the work.

The secretary's next move will be to put the anti-theft feature of the law into operation. All sheriffs are required to send in reports of stolen cars. Each month the department compiles these into a report which is furnished to sheriffs and the police.

The law also requires the "receipt of registration" to be in the driver's possession or displayed in the car at all times when the car is being operated on the highway. The "receipt" is the small sheet of paper, about 3 by 4 inches, furnished each car owner by the secretary of state. Its purpose in the car is for immediate identification in case of accident to or theft of the car.

Under the law the department is required to furnish all sheriffs with accident report blanks. These have already been sent and are for the use of individuals reporting an accident where someone was injured or property damage exceeded $50. Mr. Lukens wants it clearly understood that the only purpose of this report is statistical and the information will be used only to promote highway safety. The law definitely states that such reports are not even public record and cannot be used as evidence in a court action to establish claims or liability.

Needed a Raise

The clerk was touching his boss for a raise. "I would like an increase in salary, sir, as I am going to be married," he said. "Ah," answered the boss, "and you would like to have a bigger fund to draw on for household expenses?" "No, it isn't that," replied the clerk. "My future wife knows exactly how much I get, I would like a little extra for my own use that she doesn't know about."—Ex.

Forgot The Chorus

When you start something, be sure you have the nerve to finish it. Witness, for instance, this anecdote: Did you ever, when 50 years younger, attend camp meeting where the preacher "lined" the hymn for the congregation? At such a gathering far out in the wondering woods the preacher gave out the tune and then went on. "The light is poor, my eyes are dim, I cannot see to read this hymn." To his astonishment the congregation sang the words as given out. He could not stop it. With some impatience he blurted out: "I did not mean to sing that hymn. I only said mine eyes were dim." This too they sang. So he gave it up, pronounced the benediction and they all went home just partly saved unto the Lord. Before the preacher pronounced the benediction he took one more try, when he said: "The very devil, how you bawl. For it is no hymn at all!"—Ex.

WINCHESTER PREPARED PAINTS

All merchandise manufactured by the Winchester Repeating Arms Co. must be "as good as the Winchester gun" before their label goes on.

Winchester Paint may cost more per gallon but that is because it is made of the finest ingredients according to a scientifically "balanced" formula. But it covers 360 square feet per gallon (two coats). Cheap paint only covers 250 square feet to the gallon. Some difference.

Don't be fooled by "cheap" paint. No matter how you figure it, you can't win with "cheap" paint. The only doubtful point about it is, how much will you lose?

Where you need 11 gallons for the average house,
only 7 gallons of Winchester Paint is required.

But that is not all. Inferior paint with its inferior materials and "cheap" colors, have very little resistance. Very early in life it begins to chip, crack, check and peel. The cheap looking colors fade and wash out.
Then you have to scrape it off and do the work all over again.

Winchester Paint will stay on your buildings for an average of 5 years and more. And it will look good all those years.

Up-to-date painters endorse fine

Treat Seed to Increase Yield

Gain of 1 to 12 Bushels of Corn Per Acre Reported in Corn Belt.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

For five cents an acre, farmers in the central portion of the corn belt can treat their seed corn with a chemical dust that will largely prevent losses caused by seed-borne seedling blight organisms, according to A. G. Johnson, cereal pathologist of the United States Department of Agriculture. In tests, conducted by J. R. Hobert of the department in co-operation with Doctor Koehler of the Illinois Agricultural Experiment station and Doctor Reddy of the Iowa Agricultural Experiment station seed-corn treatment has resulted in increased yields of from 1 to 12 bushels an acre.

Treatment Explained.

The treatment consists in mixing the dust disinfectant with the dry, shelled seed at the rate of two ounces to the bushel. Doctor Johnson estimates the total cost of treating a bushel of seed, or enough for eight acres, will not exceed 40 cents, or 5 cents an acre. The dust is applied with a mixing machine of the type used in treating wheat with copper carbonate dust for smut. A mixer can be made at home if others are not available. An ordinary barrel or oil drum mounted on an axis will serve as a mixer, or a barrel churn may be used. The dust should be thoroughly applied so that every kernel is covered with a thin coating. The seed can be treated any time before planting, but should be stored in a safe place because the dust is poisonous.

Although numerous dust disinfectants have been tested, only three are commercially available at the present time. They are described in Circular 34-C, "Chemical-Dust Seed Treatments for Dent Corn," just issued by the department and are known as Bayer dust, Improved Semesan, Jr., and Merko. Names and addresses of the firms manufacturing these dusts are given in the circular.

The recent tests show that treatment with these chemical dusts benefits diseased seed and does not injure good seed. While treatment may not increase yields from good, healthy, clean seed, such treatment will kill certain seed-borne organisms and prevent losses which their presence might otherwise cause. Even many high-yielding strains of corn throughout the corn belt, thought to be healthy, frequently carry an appreciable amount of infection with certain fungous parasites. Such seed may result in a poor stand, in blighted plants, or in plants that fail to grow and yield normally.

Yield of Diseased Seed.

At the Illinois station, seed that was known to be diseased gave a yield of 47.5 bushels per acre when untreated, and when treated gave a yield of 59.5 bushels, or an increase of 12 bushels to the acre. At the same station, seed that was pronounced good made a yield of 63.2 bushels without treatment, but when treated yielded 65.1 bushels or an increase of 1.9 bushels per acre.

The fact that corn from diseased seed was benefited by seed treatment should not be taken as an argument in favor of inferior seed, says the department. Rather, it shows the importance of treating inferior seed when such seed has to be used, in order to secure as high yields as possible.

The low cost, says Doctor Johnson, and the ease of application should make seed treatment appeal to all corn growers in the central portion of the corn belt, where its beneficial effects have been proved.

A copy of Circular 34-C may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Broadcasting Soy Beans

Often Quite Successful

On land that is not very foul with weeds and when handled properly, and the season is not very wet, broadcast soy beans are often successfully grown, especially if to be used for hay. There is more risk in growing them broadcast, however. A better way to grow them is to sow the seed in rows so they may be cultivated. One difficulty that comes from broadcasting and covering with a drag is that seeds as large as soybeans are not likely to be covered well with a drag, and this gives a poor stand. The seed costs too much to be wasted in this way.

Soybeans may be double planted with a corn planter that is set for wide rows of corn. Cultivation can be done with a one-horse harrow or cultivator.

Tuberculosis Testing

and Killing of Reactors

Evidence that tuberculosis testing and slaughter of reacting animals is having an important effect on the health of cattle generally in this country is found in animals slaughtered under federal inspection. In 1917 the average, exclusive of reactors, was 2.4 per cent. In 1927, after ten years of testing and killing of reacting animals, the proportion detected by the meat inspectors had been reduced to only 1.1 per cent, indicating that in the cattle shipped for slaughter there is less than half as much tuberculosis as there was ten years ago.

There is economy in electric cooking. It costs less than coal or wood and results are far better.

Whitman Given High Place

John Bailey, the English critic, in his life of Walt Whitman credits him with being the "most original genius America has yet produced." Of the poet he says: "He is often a fine artist by a sort of divine accident, but he was equally pleased with himself when, as happened still oftener, he was not an artist or a poet at all."

Treat Seed Oats to Avoid Losses

Large Annual Injury by Smut Can Be Prevented by Using Solution.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The large annual losses in oat yields due to smut disease can be almost wholly prevented simply by dipping, spraying or sprinkling the seed with a formaldehyde solution a short time before sowing, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The importance of smut in oats is quite generally overlooked because its effect is inconspicuous at harvest time and the market value of the threshed grain is usually not impaired. During the past ten years for which records are available oat smuts have taken estimated annual tolls ranging from 20,000,000 to 91,000,000 bushels and an estimated average annual loss amounting to 48,991,700 bushels.

Use of Formaldehyde.

One pint of formaldehyde, which may be readily obtained at any drug store, is sufficient to treat 50 bushels of seed oats. Several methods of applying the solution are effective, and the one to use is only a matter of preference. For the spray method, mix 1 pint of formaldehyde with 1 pint of water and pour into a quart sprayer. If fewer than 50 bushels are to be treated, use a correspondingly smaller quantity of the solution. Shovel the oats from one pile to another, spraying each shovelful. A scoop-shovelful of seed requires about four strokes of the piston of the spray gun. After the oats are sprayed, shovel them into a pile and cover with blankets or sacks that have been thoroughly sprayed to kill smut spores. The pile should remain covered at least five hours, and may be left covered overnight. Treatment may be given at any time previous to sowing, but when seedling is delayed the oats should be spread out and aired for a day before storing.

To treat 50 bushels by the "sprinkle method" add one pint of formaldehyde to 40 gallons of water and apply with a sprinkling can while the oats are being shoveled from one pile to another. Cover in the same way and leave at least two hours or overnight. On removing the cover sow immediately, making allowance for the swollen condition of the seed when setting the drill. If sowing is delayed, the treated seed should be spread out and thoroughly dried.

Another method consists in putting the seed into loosely woven burlap or gunny sacks and dipping the sacked grain into a solution of one pint formaldehyde in 40 gallons of water. Dip the sacks of grain into the solution two or three times, or until the grain is thoroughly wet. Remove from the solution and let drain at least two hours or overnight. Then sow immediately or spread out to dry.

Vapor is Irritating.

Formaldehyde vapor irritates the eyes, nose and throat. These effects may be reduced by holding the sprayer close to the oats, by working from the windward side of the treated pile, and by doing the work in a well-ventilated place. After using the sprinkle and dip methods, care should be taken to avoid freezing or heating of wet seed. In all methods, avoid contaminating the treated seed. All bags, sacks, blankets, and even the drill, should be wet with the solution to kill any spores present.

Surplus seed treated with formaldehyde may be fed to live stock without injury, provided the grain has been spread out first and thoroughly dried for several days.

Plan to Remove Grubs From Backs of Cattle

The best way to remove grubs from the backs of cattle is to apply pressure with the thumb and forefinger to the lumps or swellings where the grubs are growing. They may be more easily removed by inserting a sharp pen knife into the opening where the grub is about to escape.

Care must be taken that all the grubs are killed as soon as they are forced out. These grubs change into flies later in the season which lay eggs from which the next year's crop of grubs develop.

Cattle should be examined every two weeks to destroy all grubs as fast as they develop to maturity.

Sunlight in Brooder

It is essential for successful brooding to arrange the windows so they open in such a way as to permit direct sunlight on the chicks. To accomplish this, the upper sash is hung at the top to open up and the lower sash can either swing open to the side or be set in place and held with buttons. Direct sunlight prevents rickets, or leg weakness. The outside of the windows should be covered with one-inch mesh poultry netting.

Shelter for Geese

Geese do not need much of a house. A dry shelter in stormy weather to sleep in is all that is necessary. Even then it will probably be difficult to make them use this house unless their feed is given there. Geese may be fed very cheaply during the off-breeding season; a little whole corn and mash of waste vegetables, potatoes, turnips, cooked with a little bran and corn meal. This is a cheap feed, and is highly relished.
