

Bulldogs Blanked Timberline Spartans 28-0 for Opening Grid Season Victory

Combining a strong running attack and a hard-nosed defense, Genesee High School's Bulldog football team won its opening game of the season 28-0 Friday night over the visiting Timberline Spartans. The Bulldog defense was so effective against the Spartans that it gave up only 30 yards while the GHS offense rolled up 222 yards and scored in every quarter.

Both teams suffered from the usual first game jitters, but the Bulldogs capitalized on the mistakes and fumbles of the Timberline team, turning two of those fumbles into touchdowns in the first half.

The game started slowly after the Spartans kicked off—Rick Flodin, taking the ball on his own 15 yard line brought it out to the 30. Genesee was unable to move the ball on the next three downs and Ron Burt punted on a fourth and four situation.

Genesee took the ball back when Paul Wedin recovered a Timberline fumble on the THS 46.

The Bulldogs were the first to get a first down as Darrell Stout, a 153-lb. sophomore running out of the fullback slot, went 8 yards for the first down with 6:37 left in the opening quarter. Tim Stout, on a quarterback option, moved the ball to the Timberline 30. Genesee, down deep in Spartan territory, scored for the first time when Dave Bennett recovered a fumble. Rick Flodin ran the conversion across to put the Bulldogs ahead 8-0.

A recovered fumble set up the next Genesee touchdown also, after an exchange of pass interceptions in the second quarter. Timberline intercepted one of the few passes Tim Stout threw that night, taking over on its own 23. The Spartans didn't keep the ball long, losing it minutes later on another pass interception. Jay Anderson, a sophomore guard scored the next Bulldog touchdown when he recovered a fumble on the Timberline 15 and went into the end zone for 6 points. Flodin ran for a two point conversion.

Timberline, pushed back into its own territory, attempted to pass out of danger in the third quarter and Tim Stout picked off the pass on the THS 30 and was down to the Spartan 25 before being stopped. Mark Kanikkeberg moved down to the 6 and from there Darrell Stout went up the middle for the third Genesee score. Kanikkeberg's conversion failed on a run.

In the final quarter, QB Tim Stout set up his own touchdown, sweeping the end for 20 yards, then three plays later going the final 9 yards for the score. A pass attempt for the extra point failed but the Bulldogs had their 28-0 win.

Highland at Genesee—Genesee will be at home again Friday night as the Bulldogs host the visiting Highland Huskies. Highland was down at Cambridge last Friday and came home with the short end of the 38-6 score in a non-league contest.

Kendrick Downed 34-0 by Prairie; Tigers at Troy Friday

Passing proved the undoing of the Kendrick Tigers Friday night in a non-league game at Cottonwood. The Pirates passed for 114 yard, completing 9 of 14 attempts, and also picked off 6 passes from Kendrick's attack to blank the Tigers 34-0.

Kendrick held the Pirates scoreless in the first quarter, but could not get its own offense moving either. In the second quarter, Reiner of Prairie completed two touchdown passes and the Pirates took a 12-0 lead at half time.

After a scoreless third quarter, the Pirates unleashed three touchdowns en route against the Kendrick squad worth 22 points and the 34-0 victory.

Kendrick couldn't generate any offense during the game ending up with a total of 64 offensive yards.

Tigers at Troy Friday—

The Tigers are in for another tough game this Friday as they are scheduled to go up to Troy to meet the tough Trojans. Troy took an easy 30-0 victory from Potlatch last Friday night.

Large Group Turned Out For KCK Camp-Out At Boulder Flats

One of the largest groups of KCK enjoyed the Labor Day weekend at Boulder Flat campground on the Lochsa with 13 campers on the outing with a total of 42 people. The weekend was spent very leisurely. Some fishing, some taking hikes on trails and just sightseeing in general. Some visited Herman Kuykendall's pack-camp and enjoyed visiting with him and Denzil, both former Kendrick men.

Others visited the museum at the old work center. The weather was real nice for an outing. The group enjoyed their usual sumptuous pot luck dinner on Sunday and the nice camp fires in the evening where the usual tales were spun, and some roasted marshmallows. Several of the group enjoyed a show and tell time with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Halsey, of San Francisco, formerly of Cuddeback who had spent some time in the South Pacific. They had some very interesting pictures and beautiful and interesting sea shells they had picked up on the beaches. Also gifts they had brought from the different Islands. This was most enjoyable.

Those going were Elmo and Mary Eldridge, Manning and Elsie Ott, Bill and Ruth White, Ben and Miriam Cook, Roy and Edith Johnson, Walt and Rowena Koepf, Ernie and Jean Brammer, Lloyd and Juanita Craig, Bob and Ida Clemens, Herb and Laurane Gustafson and family, Bob and Alvira Erickson, Wayne and Eleanor Wegner, Henry Reil and guest, Talia Lynch of Lewiston; Jolene Brammer and Ron Bayok were guests of Brammers! Gerald and Lynn Heimgartner and family of Koppes and Dale and Lydia Erickson and family of Ericksons. Walt and Connie Halsey and Boyd and Nydia Harrison joined the group for potluck on Sunday.

FHA Program Has Roots 60 Yrs. Old

In 1917, President Woodrow Wilson signed the First National Vocational Education Act into law. This Act created Federally supported, State run Programs of Vocational Education which included Home Economics. The establishment of Home Economics Education laid the foundation for the development of Future Homemakers of America as an integral part of the program. As early as 1920, High School Home Economics students belonged to clubs.

In 1945 a group selected a name for the proposed National Youth Organization of students studying Home Economics Education. The result: Future Homemakers of America. In 1946, Idaho was the 12th state to join this chartered association.

F. H. A. is a national organization of students who have taken or are taking Home Ec. courses. There are 2 types of Future Homemakers of America Chapters: F. H. A.—for consumer and homemaking students and HERO—for occupational and job training students.

Our local Kendrick Chapter is thriving with 26 members and with initiation soon approaching we will have even greater numbers and hopefully some boys may become involved.

Sunday Storm Brought Thunder, Lightning, Rain

A Pacific Coast storm swept across the region Sunday night bringing high winds, thunder, lightning and almost three-quarters of an inch of rain in some parts of the area. The storm, which reached the Genesee-Kendrick-Southwick area about 7 o'clock Sunday evening, was spotty in the amount of rain it gave. Lewiston received .15 of an inch; Moscow had only .08, but Dick Benschoter who records rainfall for the Soil Conservation Service on American Ridge, reported .65 of an inch Sunday night and early Monday morning. Other reports of up to almost an inch of rain came in.

The Genesee and Kendrick areas were also treated to a spectacular electrical storm which accompanied the rain. Brilliant flashes of lightning brightened the valley and streaked across the skies in awesome display when viewed from the ridges.

The lights blinked a couple of times in the Kendrick area but Genesee was left without power for almost an hour when a transformer went out.

For the farmers, who have spent much of the last year praying for more moisture, it was almost too much too quick as the heavy rains forced them out of the fields which still need fall work. The wet conditions also stopped logging operations around much of the area. But considering the drought which has prevailed this season, few complaints were heard.

The storm moved out of the area by daylight Monday, and Monday and Tuesday of this week have been dry and sunny with temperatures moving back into the 80's.

Home Cookin'...

I can vouch for the delicious flavor of this week's recipe, which I am placing in this week's home cookin' without the cook's approval. However, I did tell her daughter what I planned on doing, and she approved. Marguerite not only sent me in the recipe but a generous "sample" of the dish. It was delicious.

FAMILY AFFAIR—

Rehearse What To Say:

Sometimes, maybe often, we're afraid to tell our feelings. We think this may hurt our relations with someone. But there are ways to show your rights and feelings, and still build a good relationship.

Ignoring the message of sweaty palms and a knotted stomach doesn't help you build an honest relationship. These clues are telling you to assert yourself. But thoughts may stop the action. You think, "I'll never be able to say that," or "I'd be too embarrassed—what would people think?"

One woman used the express lane in the grocery store, no matter how small her load. Whenever this woman had tried to use that lane, some one in front of her had more than the legal limit to check out. This bothered her, but she couldn't talk to a total stranger!

"What would people think if I started bossing a grown woman? A total stranger? I'd fall through the floor!" So she stood in a long line to check out a carton of milk.

But there are several steps that help overcome these fears and get your rights.

First, rehearse with a friend what ever action you want to take. This works when you know something will happen, like the woman in the grocery store. So you can practice ahead. Get your friend to play the nasty woman—or whatever person you plan to confront. Then say your piece. Don't blame the other, and don't threaten, either. Just describe the situation as you see it, and tell what you're going to do.

For instance, you might say "Look I know you're in a hurry to get out of here. We all are. But this is a line for people with six items or less. You probably did not notice that." Then, depending on what she answers, plan what you'll say next.

If you're afraid to speak up, think positive. Concentrate on your strong points. Then put someone strong you admire in your place. Do you think Barbara Walters or your outspoken grandmother would let this woman push her around?

But remember, these assertive actions don't attack. Instead, they firmly describe how you feel.

Talk like you mean it. Stand up straight, look the other person in the eye and speak quietly but directly. You'll get your point across without attacking anyone.

A miscellaneous pre-nuptial shower was given for Miss Gladys Johnson at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Einar Johnson last Friday afternoon when a large number of friends and relatives gathered to help her celebrate the coming happy event, and many were the pretty and useful gifts she received.

A very pleasant event took place at the Arthur Hampton home Sunday when 3 birthday anniversaries were celebrated—that of Mrs. W. J. Jones of Ft. Smith, Arkansas and those of Joe Hampton and son, Billy of St. John, Washington.

The Future Homemakers 4-H club on Big Bear ridge met at the home of Maxine Slind. Those present were Darlene Whitcomb, Loretta Whitcomb, Carolee McGraw, Doris Schreffler, Sharyn Sturman, Maxine Slind, Jeanette Schreffler, and Mrs. Grace Ingle, the leader. Mrs. Ingle gave instructions on patching. Joan Bells of Iowa was a club guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Craig and Mr. and Mrs. Burton Souders and Burton, Jr. returned home Tuesday from a week's fishing trip in The Cedars section. They report their luck excellent, Burton, Sr. landing a 19-inch trout. They also got plenty of huckleberries and saw a moose.

Tuesday afternoon the highway bridge at the edge of Juliaetta across the middle creek between Juliaetta and Kendrick gave way, five of the stringers beneath the decking being reported broken. This bridge has long carried a "10-ton load limit" but trucks carrying far more than that

PEOPLE PROTECTORS

Did you ever think of ads as guardlans of your Individuality? They are, you know.

In a time when the edges are being eaten off our personalities and we're all being reduced to card-index numbers, we need to hang on to some things.

Like our freedom of choice. And that choice is yours only so long as competition and free enterprise and advertising are working for you. Guard them. For they stand between you and a dull and standardized life.

Pets for Children

Pets are fine pals for children, but never forget that dogs and cats are animals and they can bite or scratch, reminds the Idaho Medical Association.

It is important to make certain that young pets are trained to get along with children and that your children know how to get along with pets.

A well trained dog often will put up with rough handling from a small child, but he will not like it. Children should be taught that pets are not inanimate toys, that they have feelings, and that it hurts them to have their ears or tails pulled.

Children and pets are both happier if the youngsters share in the care of the animal. Care of a dog or cat gives a child a sense of responsibility toward other creatures.

Make certain that your pet is vaccinated against disease, for the protection of both the pet and the family.

Fish and Game Department Reports Changes In Wildlife Lists

The Department of Fish & Game now has a new classification list for the state's fish and wildlife.

Under the new rules, there are 8 categories into which the various wildlife species may be placed—game animals, game birds, game fish, furbearing animals, migratory birds, threatened or endangered wildlife, protected nongame species and unprotected wildlife.

In a summary of the changes from old classifications, the department said bison, red and fox squirrels were moved into the protected nongame species category because there are no hunting season on them and none expected in the foreseeable future.

The caribou and grizzly bear were moved to the threatened or endangered list. The Fish and Wildlife Service's official list of threatened species includes the grizzly and the caribou was included in this category to emphasize concern over proposed development in British Columbia that could threaten Idaho's small herd.

Because the French red-legged partridge has been introduced into the state since the original classification of wildlife, the department added the bird to its game bird list.

The department said since mourning doves, ducks, geese, swans, mergansers, snipe and coots are classed a migratory by International Treaty and have hunting seasons, they were moved to the migratory birds category.

With the new classification, one fish has been removed from the game fish category and one fish has been added. Because there are no chum salmon in the state, this fish was removed from the list. Since Northern pike have been introduced this fish is added to the game fish list.

No open season is forecast in the foreseeable future on wolverines; this species is moved to the protected nongame species list.

The department said recent legislation removed the bobcat, lynx and wolf from the predatory wildlife list. The wolf has been moved to the threatened or endangered category. Bobcat and lynx now appear on the furbearer list. The reclassification also added fox and racoon to the fur bearer list.

Also appearing now on Idaho's threatened or endangered wildlife list are the whooping crane and peregrine falcon.

The department said ravens, magpies, chipmunks, golden mantled squirrel, pika, and kit fox are on the protected nongame species list, meaning they cannot be hunted.

Raven and magpies are protected under International Treaty, the department said, and chipmunks, golden mantled squirrel and pikas were added to this category because there is no reason to take them and to prevent pointless killing of these animals in the state's campgrounds.

Reports since the original classification of wildlife indicate an occasional occurrence of kit foxes in Idaho, and the species was added to the protected list, the department said.

The Gazette-News
Kendrick, Idaho

Dear Sir:

I attended the Gospel-Hump wilderness hearing last week in Grangeville. Senator Frank Church chaired the hearing and was flanked by Idaho's other senator, Jim McClure.

After four months of negotiations, a compromise had been reached between various environmental groups and the Grangeville Chamber of Commerce which represented, among other interests, the logging industry of Idaho County. The two sides had come to an agreement as to which areas of the Gospel-Hump forest land of Idaho county should be classified as wilderness, which areas should be available for immediate timber harvest and which areas should be subject to further study.

While each and every interested individual was not included in the compromise negotiations the major interests were included. The compromise was then opened to public scrutiny and further input at the Grangeville hearing.

There has not been a final resolution of the matter since the Church-McClure Bill, which encompasses compromise, must pass the Congress. Thus, the compromise is open to even more input before adoption as law.

I heartily endorse the procedure of compromise which was followed in resolving the Gospel-Hump question. Land use issues are always emotional in our state, and when Federal land is involved, control over solutions seems beyond the reach of the citizens of Idaho.

We owe a great deal to Senator Church, who last March persuaded the parties to sit down and reason together. That is the kind of trouble shooting we elect our U. S. Senators to do.

The compromise has been foolishly attacked by Congressman Steve Symms and gubernatorial candidate C. L. Otter as being somehow "Coerced." They ignore the fact that the Grangeville Chamber of Commerce and the local timber industry, with the help of Church and McClure, had enough clout to force the issue off the drawing board and onto the negotiations table. Furthermore, the Idaho County logging industry walked away from the compromise with a lock on a substantial portion of harvestable timber in the Gospel-Hump area.

The problem with Symms and Otter is that neither understands the art of compromise. Its no wonder Symms has been so ineffective at representing Idaho in Congress for the past five years. The congressman who doesn't know how to compromise has little influence on the floor of the U. S. House of Representatives.

FAMILY AFFAIR—
A Few Daily Sparks,
Or Weekly Bonfire?

Every marriage experiences angry moments. But what you do with them can be the difference between a growing relationship and one that withers.

Here are a few healthy guidelines. Express your anger or frustration when it happens, or as soon after it happens as is appropriate. Don't hoard it for later. Repressed anger will only make you sick.

And focus on the here and now. "It's fighting dirty to bring in museum pieces. As long as you talk out your anger when it happens, its foul play to haul out old situations as new fuel."

Stay away from phrases like "You always," or "You never." Instead, describe how you feel. Say "When you interrupt me, as you just did, I feel like a child—little and helpless." This is better. This describes you and not the other person. Its less blaming.

Take time to hear what your spouse is really saying. Superficial words may reveal a deeper disagreement.

And, try not to set up a win/lose situation. Don't think that one of you must be right and the other wrong. When you fight this way, no one wins, and the relationship loses.

Don't be afraid to talk over your disagreements. Boatrocking is

Open Hunting

The Department of Fish and Game is forecasting few, if any, hunting closures this fall in Idaho due to the drought.

Recent cool weather rainfall over much of the state have alleviated big game drought problems and the department expects a big game season to open on schedule beginning in late September.

Forecasts by department personnel are that this fall's seasons should be improved over the past couple years. Field reports indicate a combination of a light harvest last fall, a mild winter and sufficient rainfall during the summer on most big game ranges have put planned increases in big game herds ahead of the long-range schedule.

painful, but the alternative is likely to be superficial relationship. It results when you only discuss safe subjects. There is no closeness in a relationship where communication is limited to "please remember to pick up the eggs and bring them on your way home from work, dear."

A few sparks a day, when properly handled, are better than a bonfire a week. That's the explanation that occurs when you store up anger until it spills over. Don't be afraid to tell your partner what's going on inside you. Only by sharing can you two decide how you want your relationship to change.

Stony Point

Mrs. Nellie Steigers

Mrs. Lily McCall and granddaughter Paulette spent Monday afternoon in the Wayne Heimgartner home.

Sunday afternoon Sept. 4, was "calling day" for Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stevens. During the afternoon they visited at four homes in Clarkston—with Mrs. Lois Thayer; Mrs. Verna Vincent; Mrs. Wilma Jones and Mrs. Effie Powell.

A large group consisting of the Don Hoisington family, Mr. and Mrs. Skip Koeppe and son and the Larry Groseclose family spent the weekend at Fish Lake, reporting a wonderful time.

The little Hoisington ladies are attending school at Juliaetta this term and are missed on the Stony Point bus and at Lapwai by former schoolmates.

At the Heath Home—

Mrs. Mildred Heath enjoyed a busy, happy weekend with Norma Rugg and Kenny Rugg of Lewiston, coming home Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Heath of Nezperce and Mr. and Mrs. John Klingler and son of Pierce on Sunday afternoon. Monday afternoon Chris Inghram, on crutches, accompanied by cousin Lisa Rugg came from Lewiston. Chris is returning to his studies at Lewis-Clark College and Miss Lisa is a Jr. High student this year! Jim Steigers was Mildred's Friday evening caller, killing a large rattler enroute home.

Mrs. Ed Ranta (Eva Jean) is now safely home and recovering nicely from her recent hospitalization from blood clots in her lower limbs.

Last Wednesday Helena Brown accompanied daughter Merle Cooper to Lewiston for doctor appointments and shopping. Mrs. Jan Brown and children were her Sunday working guests (Jan installed a new oven element in Helena's range). During the afternoon Geo. and Winnie Harlan of Lewiston spent some time with Helena at Pine Creek. During the weekend Bill and Merle Cooper stopped by, with the proof of killing a huge rattler in the Grangeville area.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Steigers, Sr. of Vancouver, Wash., were Thursday overnite guests in the Ernest Steigers home and spent Friday night with his brother Alvin Steigers and wife Mabel.

Mrs. Ruth Westburg, son Brad, daughter Judy and grandson Gregg were Thursday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Steigers, all from Grangeville.

Saturday dinner guests in the home of her grandparents, the Ernest Steigers, were Mrs. Don Ahles and children Shae and Joshua, of Genesee. The group visited briefly in the Helena Brown home during the afternoon.

Bill Steigers of Lewiston has assisted brother Kenneth hauling home the remainder of the Welpey hay crop, during the past week. A truck belonging to Les Heath was also used to help tide over the recent loss of Ken's large diesel truck, by El Ranta, was also gratefully received, to move stock one day after the accident. Good friends!

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schupfer on Sunday were late evening callers at the Ernest Steigers home, following an afternoon call at the Gordon Peters home, where they visited other old timers of the Fleschman family. The Schupfers left Cherrylane during the rather furious thunder, lightning and rain storm of that evening, but had arrived (just) safely home when a worried Nellie phoned their home to check.

Monday overnite guests of the E. Steigers were grandson Terry Steigers and friend Joyce Madden of Missoula. On Monday the young couple had accompanied his Eller grandparents on a drive to Lower Granite Dam, from Lewiston. The Ken Steigers' were there to visit with them on Monday evening at Cherrylane. The young couple departed for Missoula early Tuesday a. m., Joyce's 20th birthday, to assure arriving in time for the birthday dinner being prepared for her by her mother. Grandpa Ernest baked a large stack of his fluffy "hunter's" hotcakes for her breakfast!

Faulty Eating Habits

Faulty eating habits started in early childhood often are the cause of overweight adults in later life, suggests the Idaho Medical Association.

Too often mothers, with the best of intentions, encourage their children to eat more than they want. The habit of eating more calories than necessary is likely to remain with the child for the rest of his life.

The parents who thinks the child should lose weight should seek expert help. If it fits, your doctor's counsel, here are some tips to help your youngster lose weight:

Weigh once a week and keep track. It is not necessary to cut out all desserts and snacks, as long as their calorie count is included in the daily total. Fresh fruits are good for snacks.

Keep raw carrots, radishes, celery sticks and pickles on hand for snacks. Tomato juice and clear bouillon can serve for drinks.

Avoid rich salad dressings. Use vinegar and lemon juice. Trim fat from meat. Take it easy on butter. Substitute skim milk for whole milk but be sure to serve plenty of fruits and vegetables.

Do not make a point of telling the child he is on a reducing diet. Just serve the meals naturally and as a matter of course. Do not nag the child about weight and diet—it will only make him more rebellious and more inclined to snack on the sly.

Hills and curves make driving in Idaho more interesting—and more challenging. Please remember going uphill, observe all "No Passing" 3 compared to 18.

He preaches well who lives well.—Cervantes.

Home From Eastern Trip—

Stewart and Joy Huggins returned home Saturday evening August 27 from a vacation trip to Allentown, Penn., where they attended the wedding of their friends, Jackie Snyder and Paul Malinauskas. They also visited Washington, D. C. and then friends on the Delaware coast. The beach Stewart had enjoyed in the mid-sixties is now marred by many high-rise apartments (a victim of the times).

The Huggins made their eastward trip through Mont. and then Yellowstone Park. Their homeward trip took them through Colorado and Kansas, also Missouri where they visited the caves made famous by the Mark Twain stories and Lincoln's birthplace in Illinois—all most interesting.

Dick and Vicky Bencotter spent the Labor day weekend at Grandview Lodge on Priest Lake. Ella Bencotter returned home with them and at present is in a Moscow nursing home. Roy and Bernice Kent and Bernice's sister Mildred (Whistler) Miller, all of Boise were guests in the Edd Kent home from Friday to Tuesday. Other visitors on Sunday were Bruce and Fay Sherman, Clem and Flo Lyons and Andy and Minnie Cox. Frankie and Jo Bencotter called on Monday.

On Sunday Walt and Babe Bencotter joined the Arlie Armitage family for a picnic dinner near Southwick. Frank and Brett Hoisington had supper with the Bencotter on that same evening.

Other callers through the week were Audra and John Callison who brought some shells to share from their recent vacation trip; also Priscilla Armitage on Monday and Jim Kayler on Wednesday.

Jennifer Huggins, Lewiston, was a week-end guest in the Stewart Huggins home. Jackie and Paul Malinauskas, Moscow, were also callers.

On Sunday Stewart and Joy were dinner guests of his parents, the Ben Huggins in Lewiston.

The David Johnson family of Lewiston were Saturday visitors in the Heimgartner home. They and Lawrence and Ray had a winter wood cutting bee. In the evening they were joined by the Dick Grosecloses of Juliaetta. Neil Heimgartner spent a number of days last week with her father, Charley Fey, a patient in the Moscow Hospital. His condition changes day by day but at this moment seems improved.

Things are quite calm around the Warney May home with the start of school and their boys going in three directions: Mike is registered at LSCS and will drive back and forth for the time being; John is attending the U of I and Pat still in HS at Kendrick. Thursday callers in the May home were Bernadine and Chas. Easterbrook and Mabel Glenn.

The Bob Callison family returned a week ago Sunday from an enjoyable eight-day trip along the Wash., Oregon coast and on to Victoria and then home. They visited friends and relatives enroute.

Sunday afternoon the Callisons visited the Wally Butler family on Cedar Creek and shared their watermelon.

Ray, Bill and Dan Bencotter spent the weekend with the Frank Bencotter (still working on the house). Sherry Bencotter had Saturday lunch with her grandparents.

On Wednesday Jim Kayler accompanied Frankie and Jo to Moscow for lunch and to visit Jim's brother, Roy Kayler and wife.

On Thursday Jo Bencotter accompanied Flo Lyons and RoseAnn Holt to St. Maries where they all assisted in judging at the Benewah County Fair.

Agatha Perkins participated in Pomona Grange needle work judging at Orofino on Tuesday. First place blue ribbons were won by Mrs. Pearl Choate for a shawl and Viola Randall, Clarkston, for an afghan. Mrs. Helen Parvin won a third place on a knitted sweater. Mrs. Choate and Mrs. Parvin are members of Evergreen Grange No. 374.

Agatha Perkins visited at the home of Doris Pettichord at Ahsahka on Monday.

Don Cooper has spent the past week at home from work at Kooskia due to the heavy rains in the area.

Mel Arrasmith, Nancy Strack and five-year-old John Mitchell, all of Lewiston, called on Mrs. Gayle Marek, Jake and Bud Adamson Thursday evening.

Agatha Perkins spent the day Friday in Lewiston and Clarkston, where she was an afternoon visitor at the home of Margaret Burman in Lewiston and in the evening at the Leland Marvin and Viola Randall homes in Clarkston.

The road closures, which are made through agreements between the department and the land management agency involved, are designed to reduce human disturbance of certain big game herds. They are not designed to end hunting in the road closure area.

Hunting still is allowed in such areas, but hunters cannot use a motorized vehicle on roads that are closed. All roads that are closed will be posted before hunting season.

PARTICLES IN YOUR EYE

When a foreign particle lands in your eye, do the eye a favor and keep your hands off suggests the Idaho Medical Association.

Rubbing the eye, or poking into it with a finger or handkerchief increases the irritation and may cause infection.

If left alone, the particle will probably be washed away by tears to the inside corner of the eye. Then it will wash away.

A particle too large to be washed out, or one that causes severe irritation, should be removed by a doctor.

Occasionally, a foreign particle penetrates the surface of the eye, sometimes without the knowledge of the victim. The injury may become apparent after days or weeks. Pain, redness, of the eye, or impaired vision are typical symptoms.

A foreign particle embedded in the eye requires immediate medical attention.
